ARTIST BIOGRAPHY

A native of Pennsylvania, Khara Koffel has been living and working in Jacksonville, Illinois for the last seven years. As a graduate with a Masters of Fine Arts Degree in sculpture from the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa, Koffel currently specializes in teaching 3-D design, sculpture and photography and enjoys working with students from all backgrounds at MacMurray College.

With several major moves under her belt before the age of 25, Koffel focuses much of her work on the concepts of nostalgia and distance and how the two both build and test relationships. Science, logic, and family often come into play both in concept and in materials with the result being a personal yet universal body of work.
